PU 941/1 x: Different looks – same performance

Different looks, but always the accustomed original equipment quality: The PU 941/1 x is now available with two different kinds of filter media. The first version is produced with a white looking media, while the lately introduced second version has a yellow looking cellulose media.

The two versions have a different number of pleats, with the only difference being in appearance. To ensure performance both were subjected to an extensive test program and released according to the same specification.

No matter which version you will receive, with the PU 941/1 x you get highest filtration performance and protection of the engine against harmful particles
