Everything under control - with maintenancepackages from febi

Truck engines are very sensitive to dust and foreign bodies. With the correct air inlet and filtration system, the engine gets exactly what it really needs. This not only improves the performance of the vehicle, the fuel consumption also drops and the vehicle produces less emission.

To shorten the search for individual filters and hence minimise the calculable downtime of the vehicles, febi bilstein offers numerous complete maintenance packages in OEM quality.

The advantages at a glance:

- all the parts for technically correct maintenance in one package
- tedious searching for individual parts not required
- shorter downtimes for vehicles
- just one storage location for all parts
